

PLEASE do not weaken this bill. There are other ways to advertise your business, other than harassing people on the telephone. I have seen businesses advertise in trailers to movies, commercials flood our televisions, print advertisements are just about everywhere. Is there really a need to harass the general public at home? Half the time - it is a machine leaving you a recording. Evenings, weekends, there is no rest for the public.

Perhaps we could all call the FCC, everyday and harass you constantly until you hear the voice of the people. There is a reason why the "Do Not Call" List has been so popular - we're not signing up on a whim, but to stop checking our Caller ID and erasing the junkmail on our answering machines.
